

Event Incident Management

 Thursday 29 September 2022

 Course Description

Held in conjunction with Osberton International Horse Trials, this year this course will be helping you fine tune performance- both yours under pressure and the sports horse; looking at specific emergencies, how to work at courses better and essentially- tips for making decisions under pressure with delegates learning how to remain calm and triage the acutely lame horse and transport it off course in the optimum way. An all-encompassing course with practical speakers with huge amounts of hands-on experience, this is a must for all those interested or currently working at horse trials or other equine events. Learn and discuss practical tips associated with getting the best out of sports horses. Find out how to manage a major incident such as a fire at the stables. Find out how doctors will be managing human trauma and how they approach injuries on the course. It will be based outdoors on Osberton cross country course or in a marquee. The afternoon practical session will provide hands on training for a variety of incidents involving horse and rider on XC.
